

3 Tips For Singing Better

This is your cheat sheet on getting a better singing mind-set. Have a copy on the road in order to guide you whenever you feel clogged and you can't focus on your performance.

1. It's All In Your Mind

Sometimes you catch yourself blaming your timbre or technique. Don't do that! You have spent so much time and energy creating your voice and the last thing you want is disapproval and anguish.

Focus on the colourful moments.

Have a walk, call a friend, listen to your favourite tracks or have some rest, etc.

Whatever you choose just rule out those dirty thoughts.

They won't get you anywhere!

2. Always Warm Up...Every Single Time!

Do you know a friend that after singing a few songs he feels really knocked out?

Well, that's why you need to warm up properly following the series of exercises you've been working for so long.

Do not leave tis tip to fate! Warm up!

3. Breathe Low

Use your diaphragm, that special muscle responsible for humans' breathing.

Remember that you need less air for reaching those high notes than you think!

Hope these tips help you regain your focus.
